Nurse On-line&trade;

Risk management for worker's compensation

As worker's compensation insurance costs continue to escalate, responding to work-related injuries is challenging and expensive. Solvis Nurse On-Line&trade; is the best way to manage worksite injuries and associated costs to business. We provide immediate care by registered nurses to employees who are injured on the job.

The Problem

- Supervisors who respond to injuries often lack proper medical training or experience to determine the seriousness of an injury and the appropriate response.

- Minor injuries such as strains and sprains that would respond favorably to first aid treatment are often referred to expensive providers whose treatments may be more expensive and time consuming than first aid.

- Independent clinics and hospitals are often unfamiliar with the worksite environment, first aid options, or return-to-work programs.

- Injured employees who are simply referred out to a clinic or hospital can get caught up in a lengthy process that can stretch recovery time and missed workday. The process becomes call-intensive and costly for employers.

The Solution

- Solvis Nurse On-Line&trade; provides 24/7 nurse coverage for worksite injuries - both employees and supervisors. Since there is only one basic fee, there is no additional cost for higher call volumes.

- We offer sound clinical decisions about when first aid is appropriate (according to established medical protocols) or when referrals are necessary.

- All referrals are made to Solvis-associated clinics who subscribe to medical protocols that are State-certified and proffered by Solvis' medical director.

- The system provides for prompt attention and report of worksite injuries using on-line technology.

The Results

- A better system of care for employees

- Lower costs to employers related to workers' compensation claims

- More consistent and efficient management of claims and costs.

Our Company

The Solvis Group is a diversified medical services company. Headquartered in San Diego, California, our divisions include nurse staffing to hospitals, home healthcare services, and physical therapy (including home therapy). We also have broad experience with occupational medicine; and our medical director has been at the forefront of workers' compensation law.

Our expertise at reducing employer risk in relation to workers' compensation claims is unmatched. Our clients have included dozens of companies who have been able to reduce their mod rates, claims exposure, and insurance premiums through the use of our treatment protocols and management services. We have been so successful on the west coast that we now provide our services nationally.

Additional Client Services

• Pre-placement services (drug testing and physical exams)

• Back-to-work and compliance programs

• Physician claims review/medical directorship to lower premiums even more

• On-site consulting and training

• Immunizations, fitness, and health maintenance
